With F.M.I.

One of the newest developments in "pop" records is the sales success of a narrative called the "Americans" read by a Detroit disc jockey and written by a Canadian editorialist.

It has been 14th in pop record sales, usually reserved for teen music rock, country western or a mixture.

That means patriotism has hit the "Top 40". Odd that a Canadian should have to come to our rescue, but he does. He is Gordon Sinclair, 73, and fed up with the pasting this country has been taking from without and within.

If a U. S. citizen had made the record, it might have "bombed", but when Sinclair takes up for this country, it rings true.

Vietnam, Watergate, national disasters are cited including a note at the end which says the American Red Cross is broke, which it is because of dealing with catastrophes. The rolling rhetoric is reaching an audience which for the past 10 years has been doubtful about this country and perhaps felt somewhat justified in that feeling these days.

Sinclair is speaking up for America, a thing less popular, but as important at this juncture as any statement we can hear.

Rockdale Fire Destroys Clothing Shop, Cafe

Six fire trucks from Rockdale, Thorndale and Minerva plus the Alcoa plant battled a fire in Rockdale for 3 1/2 hours Sunday afternoon which destroyed a cafe and women's clothing shop.

Destroyed were Singer's Grill and Vera's Fads and Fashions in the 100 block of East Cameron Avenue.

Temple Youth Dies In Accident In Milam County

Funeral for a Temple youth was held Tuesday at Temple following his death in a tragic accident in Milam County on Sunday.

Killed was David Manson Sneed, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Sneed of Temple. He was killed accidentally while riding a horse at his family's farm near Jones Prairie.

He apparently was dragged to his death, said a spokesman for the family. He was injured fatally when his foot caught in the saddle stirrup after he either fell off or was thrown by the horse. The spokesman said the child was dragged along the ground.

Surviving are his parents, two brothers, Robert and Philip Sneed of Temple; a sister, Cindy Sneed of Temple; grandparents, Mrs. Lucy Forsyth of Temple and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ferguson of Corona Del Mar, Calif.; and great grandmothers, Mrs. Jim McCall of Bremond and Mrs. John Ferguson of Bryan.

Milam Counts 4 Traffic Deaths

Milam County counted four traffic deaths in 1973, according to a report by Sgt. Fred Hurst, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area. A total of 128 were injured during the year. Accidents totaled 273 for the year.

In December, 13 accidents resulted in two deaths and eight injuries, according to DPS report.

Firemen directed most of their efforts toward containing the blaze and preventing it from spreading to a vacant bank building next door and a movie theater in the same block.

When the fire alarm sounded at 4 p.m., the theater was packed with children, watching a Sunday afternoon matinee. The building was evacuated as a precautionary measure.

Rockdale Fire Chief Johnny Weed said the Rockdale units appeared to have the fire under control at 5 p.m. when the tar roof caught ablaze, sending a black, billowing cloud of smoke hundreds of feet in the air. Requests for help then went out to neighboring fire departments, Weed said.

The fire appeared to be under control at 7:30 p.m.

Weed said the fire apparently started in the kitchen area of Singer's Grill and spread to the adjoining clothing store. The cafe had closed at 2 p.m., two hours before the fire broke out, Weed said.

Contents of both cafe and clothing store were a total loss. The roof of the adjoining business collapsed shortly after 5 p.m. Only the outer brick shell was left standing.

Mrs. Vera Miller, owner of the building housing both businesses, set $100,000 as a conservative damage estimate to the building and its contents.

Weed said the exact cause of the fire is unknown.

April 4 Deadline For Registration

April 4 is the deadline for registration to qualify to vote in the May 4 primary elections, according to the office of the tax assessor and collector for Milam County.

Under the permanent registration law which went into effect in 1971, anyone who has registered since October 1, 1971, and has not changed their place of residence does not need to re-register.

Those who have not registered or who have moved since they registered should do so before the April 4

City Approves Variance Permit

The city council voted to approve a variance permit for Ben Franklin Store to build in the 700 block of N. Travis during a regular meeting Tuesday evening.

The permit was required so the business could set its building back on the lot the same distance as the neighboring Keith's Minimex.

Council held a public hearing for the variance, and it was attended by three persons. They were not objecting to the building but were concerned that construction would damage their property. Mayor Gene Blake pointed out that commercial property could be built along the property line if the company desired.

A special use permit was also granted for placing a mobile home at 1100 S. Bowie.

E. J. Prowasek appeared before the council and asked who would be responsible for maintenance of the right of way if 17th street were paved. The street is about 100 feet wide, and 50 ft. paved street would leave much to be maintained, he said. The mayor said property owners would be responsible for maintaining the property in front of their places.

Suspect On Bond After Robbery Of Local Shop

A Temple man is out on $3000 bond after being charged with aggravated assault by robbery following an incident Saturday afternoon in which two women were injured.

Charged in Justice of the Peace Jess Brock's court is Richardo Yassasi of Temple, 26, who was picked up at his residence after a robbery at Cameron.

An envelope containing $72 was taken from two women at the Rumage Shop, 1306 N. Travis about 5:30 p.m. Saturday. A man struck the two women in the head with a socket wrench handle during the robbery.

Pauline Pearson was taken to St. Edward Hospital, treated and released. Mary Eichinger did not require treatment.

The women told Cameron police that a man entered the shop and after looking at some wigs and stereo tapes struck the women and took an envelope containing the $72.

Two More Men File For Primary Election

Two more names have been added to the candidates list for the May 4 primary election, according to Carroll Glaser, County Democratic Chairman.

Charles J. (Bubba) Maddox has filed for re-election to the post of county treasurer and Leonard Allen has filed for re-election as JP of Precinct 4.

SHOOTING THE BASE was the work done by these two men in their pickup marked "radioactive," instruments in the truck and the testing apparatus shown in the street measure the compactness and moisture content of the street's base to see if it was ready for paving.

Mothers To March For Annual Drive

At 6 p.m. Monday, January 28, men, women and children will join the Mothers March on Birth Defects in a house-to-house campaign to distribute March of Dimes literature and solicit donations to help fight birth defects. Volunteers are needed.

Mrs. Florence Meissner, campaign chairman, said, "Cameron is asked to help by putting up the dogs and turning on porch lights for this short time."

Mothers March volunteers are asked to meet at the First National Bank. Drivers will also be needed.

"There are 15 areas to cover in Cameron and at least one driver and two marchers for each area are needed," Mrs. Meissner said.

To date, these girls represent Cameron in the Queen's Contest being sponsored as part of the 1974 MOD campaign. Becky Miller, Pat Horelica, Kathy Hariston, Debbie Ermis, Joy Sanders, Doris Lesikar, and Rochelle Angell.

The queen contest ends February 15 and the girls bringing in the most money will be crowned queen and the girl bringing in the next most money will be runner-up.

Prizes to date are $35 cash and a gift certificate for the queen and $25 cash for the runner-up.

A business drive will be conducted in Cameron following the Mothers March. All MOD activities, with the exception of the queen contest should be concluded in Cameron by the end of January.

"Milam County residents are again thanked for the splendid help and cooperation rendered in behalf of the March of Dimes," Mrs. Meissner said.

CofC Women Seek Improvements

A ladies branch of the Cameron Chamber of Commerce has been formed and is becoming active in civic endeavors of the city, according to an announcement from the local Chamber office.

Members include women who hold Chamber memberships or whose husbands hold memberships, or who manage a business holding membership.

After an initial meeting in December, the women decided upon several general areas where they felt the women of the community can be of assistance.

Specific areas include community health, community hospitality, community pride and community promotion. Each area has a chairman whose primary responsibility will be to organize the ideas brought to her attention and follow them through to completion.

Cameron is at a very opportune stage where well-advised strong support in these areas could certainly complement all community programs," said Mrs. Barbara Smitherman, Chamber manager.

Under community health, for instance, the women feel that there could be a better concentrated effort in the search for people in the medical profession.

Mrs. Douglas Perrin, head of the health committee, said, "Newcomers are always concerned with housing, schools and social activities and the effect of these areas upon a prospect we may have could greatly influence the decision of the people we seek."

"As for community pride," said Mrs. Leo Fuchs, head of that committee, "we will be concentrating on co-ordinating efforts of the community to become more aware of ecology details. We hope to be of help in several public areas such as the entrances to our city, park improvements and maintenance of publicly used facilities. We have also talked of starting an ecology award program to impress upon our adults and children the responsibilities in environmental upkeep and pride."

Mrs. Perry Holder, chairman of the community promotion, said Cameron has unlimited areas for community promotion particularly with the soon to be completed urban renewal project. "There is an annual Governor's Community Achievement Award presented to towns for achievements and improvements," she noted. The communities who enter this contest compete only with towns of comparable size.

"We feel we have a golden opportunity to receive this state and nationwide recognition," she added.

Mrs. Regina Woodum is in charge of the hospitality committee. She said, "Our hospitality group will concentrate on being official hostesses for Cameron. Our Chamber holds its annual banquet in the spring each year and has sponsored other activities, including the appearance of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra the past two years. We are also interested in a welcoming program for newcomers."

Mrs. Carol Barr, who is head of the new Chamber organization, added that other ideas are being channeled to the group such as community culture and community sports. "Cameron and Milam County have a wealth of history and we dream of a smm museum to hold and preserve some of our past. There is much information that, when properly used, could make our history and heritage lively and interesting," she said.

The women meet on the fourth Wednesday of each month at 9:30 a.m. in the Chamber of Commerce office, and all women associated with the Chamber are invited to attend.

Forging And Melding...

A county-wide March of Dimes drive is underway. This is perhaps the only annual county-wide funding program for such a drive.

It suggests by last year's success and this year's ambition that county-wide efforts a satisfactory way of bringing off funding programs. A recent example was funding for the Milam Junior Livestock Show.

This type of base can bring off a wide range of developmental programs which serve the communities within Milam County and which are larger than regional divisions within the county or the Milam area.

Some things are area in scope, some things county in scope, some things community.

It is good to know that county wide programs are coming to the fore. Milam is a thousand square miles of industrious people.

And they forge ahead, melding fragmentation that has been damaging or at least inhibiting to so many institutions in the Central Texas area.

Welcome News...

The Milam area would seem to be headed much-needed additional housing as Department of Housing and Urban Development released $6.6 billions at an 8 1/4 percent ceiling for new construction.

It would encourage construction of 200,000 new houses. Quite a number of those will be in the Cen-Tex area.

The interest rate is currently 8 1/2 percent, but the new funds will go at 8 1/4, still one-quarter point higher than conventional funding in mid-1973.

Point is a continuous flow of housing will be possible in an area which is seeing real home construction on a broad base for the first time in perhaps a generation.

It is welcome news in this area.

Interest In Freezing Bodies Dropped Off By Public

By Bruce Russell

LOS ANGELES - Public interest in experiments to freeze corpses so they can be raised from the dead some day has dropped off since the idea was first tried in the late sixties, according to an official of the California Cryonics Society.

Two bodies have been withdrawn from the freezing chambers where they were being held for possible revivals because their families lost interest in the experiment, says Robert Nelson, president of the society.

Nelson says a third body -- that of Dr. James Bedford, the first ever to be placed in deep freeze in a widely-publicized operation in 1967 -- might also be withdrawn.

He says the decline in public interest is shown by a marked drop-off in the number of inquiries received by the society.

But he says the 300 members of the California society remain as dedicated as ever to the idea and Nelson describes anyone who does not sign up for deep-freezing after death as "committing suicide."

Altogether 14 bodies are now stored in rented space in mortuaries in Los Angeles and New Jersey, according to Nelson.

Periodically a truck drives up to the mortuary and pumps in a new supply of liquid nitrogen to insure the temperature of the bodies remains at minus 320 degrees Fahrenheit.

The idea of "cryonic suspension" -- of deep freezing of bodies -- got world-wide publicity in 1972 when an eight-year-old Quebec girl, Genevieve de la Poerle, was frozen soon after she died here of cancer.

The moment she was pronounced dead in hospital she was injected with a blood-thinning liquid and put into a plastic bag filled with crushed ice.

The ambulance which rushed her to a mortuary was equipped with a heart-lung machine to keep blood circulating through her system nourishing the cells with oxygen.

At the mortuary her body was drained of blood and the veins refilled with dimethylsulfoxide, a liquid which acts like a motor car's anti-freeze, preventing the formation of destructive ice crystals in the body.

Then the temperature of the body was slowly lowered. At minus - 140 degrees Fahrenheit she was placed in the stainless steel cylinder filled with liquid nitrogen resembling a giant thermos from which Genevieve's parents hope she will be resurrected one day when science is able to cure her cancer.

The total cost of cryonic "suspension" is about $20,000 according to Nelson

About $5,000 of this goes to paying the steel casket and mortuary expenses and the rest is put in trust to pay for the perpetual upkeep of the casket.

Liquid nitrogen expenses are about $300 a year.

Nelson says the experiment has been hit to a limited extent by rising costs and the society is now experimenting with large caskets in which a number of bodies can be frozen.

Since the death of the Montreal girl only one other body has been frozen in California.

A Beverly Hills pediatrician had the operation performed on his wife late in 1972 after she died of cancer. Because she was expected to die at home, the pediatrician kept a refrigerator filled with ice on the back porch to pack her body when she died.

Most people interested in freezing their remains after death take care of the cost of it by ordering a life insurance policy and making the benefits payable to the Cryonics Society.

But some have done it by leaving requests in their will and this has led to family challenges of wills and decisions to withdraw relatives from the scheme.

BEAGLE NOISY

The name "beagle" probably stems from an old French word that means "clamorous," or insistently noisy.

Texas Media Groups Seek 'Freedom Of Information'

Texas media groups interested in "freedom of information" met with Attorney General John Hill this week to discuss his opinion that police officers' arrest and offense reports are confidential under an exception to the new Texas open records act.

The quasi-judicial hearing was held because legislative leaders who supported the open records law said it was not their intention to allow police departments to keep arrest and offense reports secret.

Representatives of the Texas Joint Media committee were meeting with their attorneys to prepare statements for Attorney General Hill. Members of the committee include the Texas Press Association, Texas Daily Newspaper Association, Texas Association of Broadcasters, Texas Associated Press Managing Editors, Sigma Delta Chi, American Society of Newspaper Editors and Texas Press Women.

Most police chiefs were leaving their "blotters" open to news people, because they interpreted Hill's opinion as giving them an option on the closing.

Original sponsor of the amendment to the open records law that would close police records was Col. Wilson Speir, director of the Department of Public Safety.

"If this attorney general's opinion holds, and reports of crimes are withheld from the public, the Texas Joint Media Committee representatives will consider amendments to this legislation for the next Texas legislature," stated Glenn Sedam, Texas Press Association vice president and legislative chairman.

SPECIAL SESSION TALKED - As the Constitutional Convention rolled along, pretty much on schedule, new pressures started for a special legislative session on school finance during the summer.

Governor Dolph Briscoe, who has been firm against a special session on comprehensive restructuring of the financial formulas, ordered a day-by-day monitoring of school money problems resulting from inflation and the energy crisis.

Ades said he is giving "serious consideration" to requests for supplementary financial aid before school opens next September.

School administrators and Texas State Teachers Association have requested emergency appropriations of $100 million for school maintenance and operation. Another $40 million is asked to increase teacher retirement payments an average of 10 percent.

State Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale renewed his request for a meeting of the legislature on school money matters to help districts in desperate financial need.

end of the current state fiscal period.

However, Kubiak agreed to soft-pedal talk of a special session during the Constitutional Convention.

Briscoe reportedly is continuing to push for complete data on property tax values in each school district as a basis for long-term revision of the finance system.

He may offer a tentative overall plan by November for consideration of the next regular session.

EVERYBODY'S INVITED - When witnesses were slow to schedule appearances before Constitutional Convention committees, delegates proposed to go out looking for them.

One even went so far as to suggest "witness wanted" advertisements.

Citizens who have something they would like to say to the delegates about how to revise the constitution can line up appointments with the appropriate committees by free long distance calls.

The toll-free number is 1-800-292-9600. Call for instructions on how to get on the schedule to testify -- or for general information.

About 90 lobbyists for varying special interest, meanwhile, have registered with the Secretary of State to make their own efforts at influencing shape of the new constitution above board.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

According to a nationwide survey I read about in a newspaper last night, "people generally aren't satisfied with the way newspapers are run." They said papers sometimes slant the news, are sometimes inaccurate, irresponsible and biased.

I don't know who was interviewed in this survey or what papers they were talking about, if they'd be willing to sign their names, if their daughter's wedding was left out, or what, but my theory is that you show me a newspaper nobody criticizes and I'll show you a newspaper nobody reads.

I've always thought that criticizing a newspaper was half the fun of subscribing, like buying a ticket to a football game is a license to lambast the coach if he loses. Nowhere in the Constitution does it say you can't laugh at a Congressman just because you voted for him.

Sure, most newspaper editors are biased, biased in favor of their own community, and sometimes they leave out the truth, which is better than having to leave town. Most people want the truth published about others, not themselves.

But I got to thinking about that survey. If the people who conducted it have any money left over they ought to broaden their inquiry. For example, how many people are dissatisfied with the way their church is run, their grocery store, their bank, their city government, their radio or television stations, their schools, their universities? Why they might even find out some people are dissatisfied with the way surveys are run.

But they shouldn't go too far. For example, I don't want them conducting a survey to find out how many people like my letters to The Herald every week, and if they go ahead and do it anyway I hope you'll avoid the risk of slanting the news and refuse to print it.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Far from the madding crowd," wrote the poet Thomas Gray, life can be beautiful.

It can also be a lot safer. Crowds have built-in dangers, and the law requires those in charge -- if anyone is -- to take reasonable precautions against accidents.

Consider this case: Moviegoers came swarming into the lobby of a downtown theater, determined to get good seats at the next "break." But they pushed so hard against the restraining rope that an elderly woman in front suffered a broken rib.

Still, not every crowd-caused injury is preventable. Another woman was injured in an elevator when too many people tried to squeeze in. Was this, too, the responsibility of the management? Demanding damages, the woman said it was.

But a court disagreed, seeing no one at fault in such an odd, impromptu mishap.

Cotton Meeting Planned

By Bill McCutchen

A cotton production meeting co-sponsored by the Milam County Crops Committee and the Milam County Farm Bureau will be held Tuesday night, January 29th at 8 p.m. at the Thorndale Vocational Agriculture Building in Thorndale.

The program will be geared primarily to early season insect control with particular attention paid to controlling the overwintered boll weevil.

W. E. Beckhusen of Buckholts, ginners, farmer and chairman of the Crops Committee, will speak on his experience on early season insect control. The Crops Committee under Beckhusen's leadership is sponsoring a cotton pest management program with emphasis on early season control and letting beneficial insects handle the hard to control tobacco budworm-bollworm complex.

Dr. Charles Cole, Extension entomologist will also be on the program. Dr. Cole will have a discussion on cotton pest management and boll weevil diapause control programs.

Several cotton demonstrations conducted during the 1973 crop year will be discussed by Bill McCutchen, Milam County Extension Agent.

All cotton producers and others interested are welcome to attend.

Swine Check-off

Some 16 area swine producers heard the proposed self assessment program explain Monday night January 14 in Cameron.

John Fair, executive vice president of the Texas Pork Producers Association; Bob Gray, assistant marketing director, Texas Department of Agriculture; Ernie Davis, Extension livestock marketing specialist and Bill Thomas, Extension swine specialist explained the program.

Fair said that the Association would decide on January 21st whether or not to call the referendum. He said should the referendum be called and pass a maximum rate of 10 cents per head for slaughter hogs could be assessed.

If the Association decides to hold the referendum, each producer would have a vote. Further details on this balloting will be available if the referendum is held.

Kruse's Plans Win Conservation Award

The Directors of the Central Texas Soil and Water Conservation District selected a Milam County District co-operator to become the recipient of an award in their annual Conservation Awards Program which was held Tuesday in Temple. This program is an annual event which is held to recognize farmers and ranchers in the District who have done an outstanding job of putting conservation to work on their land.

Lucien Kruse, son of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Kruse of Cameron, was selected to receive the Absentee Conservation Farmer award. This award is presented to the individual who resides outside the District and usually his principle income is derived from other business or professional interests.

Kruse owns a 100 acre farm near Maysfield and has been a District co-operator since 1968. He has converted old cropland fields and brush infested land into an intensified livestock operation. Kruse quickly saw the need for a complete conservation program on his farm.

Approximately twenty-five acres of post oak infested land was cleared and the entire place planted to permanent grasses. Cross fences were constructed to provide three separate pastures. Two pastures were planted to Coastal bermudagrass and the other seeded to Ermelo lovegrass.

Ponds were constructed so that separate livestock water could be available for each pasture. A well managed pasture program consisting of proper fertilization, weed control, and rotation grazing is applied every year; thus, each acre of land produces a high quality forage which is later converted into pounds of beef.

Kruse has developed a year round grazing program by using Coastal bermudagrass for a period of seven to eight months and Ermelo lovegrass for the winter and early spring grazing. This intensified pasture program has allowed Kruse to manage a herd of fifty animal units year round without feeding supplemental hay during the winter months.

The Kruse's are to be commended to their outstanding contributions to the field of soil and water conservation. This particular place has been used by the Central Texas District many times to show other landusers the benefits and rewards of a complete conservation program. It is conservation work such as this that plays a vital role in conserving our nation's soil and water resources for future generations to come.

Local Distributor Is Recognized

Grimes and Hobbs, of Cameron, has been recognized by Agrico Chemical Company as an outstanding marketer of fertilizers to farmers of this area.

The award recognizes overall excellence in fostering improved plant nutrition and soil fertility and for rendering outstanding services to customers and community.

Farm Tax Needs Decisions

Managing a modern farm or ranch business requires a large amount of capital and the handling of large sums of money annually.

As farm businesses become larger, the tax consequences of farm business decisions have a greater impact on cash flow and net income, says Dr. Wayne A. Hayenga, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"A farm or ranch manager is constantly making decisions during the year that affect the amount of income tax to be paid and the amount of cash available," explains Hayenga. "To make wise decisions in the framework of minimizing income tax while maximizing after-tax income, farmers and ranchers must understand the tax consequences of various business transactions throughout the year."

Tax management is concerned with maximizing after-tax incomes over a long period of time. Frequently, there is no conflict between a wise tax decision and a good farm business decision. However, when a choice must be made, the one resulting in the larger net income after taxes should be followed, advises the Texas A&M University System specialist.

If farmers and ranchers filed an estimate of taxes before January 15, they have until April 15 to complete their 1973 income tax returns. Otherwise, the deadline for final income tax returns is March 1.

"The next few weeks will be important from the overall management standpoint as farmers and ranchers prepare their tax returns and plan their 1974 operations," emphasizes Hayenga. "We hope to provide specific information in subsequent articles that will help producers with these particular tasks."

Gas Industry Plans Research

More than three-quarters of the natural gas industry's total research budget of $2.3 billion for the next five years should be geared toward development of synthetic natural gas (SNG), the American Gas Association said today.

"Conversion of coal to SNG represents a major opportunity for the gas industry to increase its gas supply over the coming decades based on enormous available coal resources and existing technology," A.G.A. Chairman Herbert D. Clay said. Clay is also chairman of National Fuel Gas Company, New York.

A report detailing the full technological requirements of the gas industry for the next twenty-five years in three progressive time frames was released at a press conference.

Clay stressed the contribution of the natural gas industry to the nation's economy and environment. "Natural gas is the principal source of energy for our homes, public buildings and industries. Its shortage last year prompted the initial disruption in our energy using habits, and its future supplies offer the best hope for energy self-sufficiency for the United States," he said.

"Natural gas is also the most efficient form of energy from the standpoint of conserving primary natural resources, and utilizes the most efficient energy transportation system available," Clay added.

"With proper funding for this massive research effort, along with well recognized steps to stimulate conventional production and obtain supplemental supplies, the natural gas industry can help meet the urgent requirements of the nation for clean, dependable energy for the remainder of this century," said John W. Partridge, Chairman of The Columbia Gas System, Wilmington, Delaware, the nation's largest natural gas company. Partridge was chairman of the gas industry research committee which initiated the report.

The report calls for total funding for $2.3 billion during the first five years. Annual funding for the entire research program would rise from $246 million in 1974 to $685 million in 1978. Of the total, $1.7 billion is earmarked for SNG technology (from coal, oil, oil shale, solid wastes, biomass, and hydrogen).

An additional 10 percent of the total is planned for more efficient utilization; 6 percent for transmission; 5.7 percent for exploration and production; and 0.3 percent for liquefied natural gas.

Timber Growth

Biggest timber growing potential lies with a million small owners, say U.S. foresters. But so far the incentives are insufficient.

Thoughts About Thistle

A "thistle-stop tour" of Scotland takes us back to the thirteenth century. Such an excursion is fascinating, according to the Teacher's Scotch Information Centre, for it reveals how the prickly purple thistle became the national emblem of that lovely land.

When Alexander III was king of Scotland, King Haakon of Norway landed an army on the shores of that kingdom and attempted to conquer it. According to legend, during the sneak attack on the Scottish camp at Largs, a barefoot Norseman trod on a thistle and cried out in pain.

The Scots were alerted, and the attack failed. Soon afterward Haakon withdrew his army. His successor surrendered the Hebrides Islands to Scotland.

Since that time, thistle has continued to grow on the Scots. Even today, it is very much to the point.

Legislators Ask More Participation

Legislators involved in the Constitutional Convention have been "distressed" by the lack of citizen participation during the opening days of committee hearings, Rep. Dan Kubiak said in his newsletter this week.

He said the first week of hearings has been dominated by professional lobbyists and those persons with vested interests, such as technical experts representing state institutions and occupational groups.

"I do not mean to be derogatory about these people because they do contribute important information about their fields," Kubiak said.

"But for our work to be successful, all the technical information in the information in the world still must be tempered to the mood, the wishes and the good common practical sense of the everyday private citizens," he added.

The Convention has major committees dealing with education, finance, local governments, organization of the legislature, the executive and the courts, rights and suffrages, and a committee on general provisions which is dealing with such items as right-to-work.

"As I've said before," Kubiak said, "you don't have to be a Philadelphia lawyer to testify before a committee and contribute your views on your state government. History shows that this Convention is a once-in-a-century opportunity."

Rep. Kubiak Files For Re-Election

Rep. Dan Kubiak of Rockdale today filed for reelection to a fourth term in the Texas House, saying that unfinished state business -- notable in public education -- dictated his decision to seek a return to the Legislature.

The 35-year-old Kubiak, a teacher and coach before going into politics, is chairman of the Education Committees of both the Texas House during regular session and the Constitutional Convention now meeting at the capitol.

Kubiak paid his filing fee at State Democratic Executive Committee headquarters here for the May 4 primary. His District 36 includes Falls, Millam and Williamson counties.

"There is a job to be done in Austin and I owe this state and district my dedication and energy there," he said.

He said he will continue to press for a special legislative session on school matters, especially public school finance, but that "unless the governor changes his stance, the crisis will be facing us when the 64th Legislature convenes."

Kubiak has been a leader of the reform forces under House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. and last year gained statewide prominence in his efforts to design a statewide public school finance system to end glaring local district education inequities brought out in federal court suits.

"The 63rd Legislature has accomplished much, but we haven't solved all the problems," Kubiak said. "The most critical area of unfinished business is school finance."

"I believe my six years experience in the House and my work as a committee chairman qualify me to help shoulder the load," he said.

Besides school finance, Kubiak listed as important "pending business" problems of energy use and the environment, rural development and transition to a new constitution if it is approved by the voters.

Kubiak said that in considering his decision he was "heartened by encouragement from many people urging me to seek higher office."

"I have been candid in my response that at a future time I will be interested in offering my service for higher office," he said.

"I am greatly indebted to the people of Milam, Falls and Williamson counties for the support, encouragement and courtesies you have given Zana and me. We have tried to earn your trust by hard work and fair play and we pledge to continue that effort," he said.

Kubiak was first elected to the Legislature in 1968 by defeating a veteran incumbent. He gained easy reelection in 1970 but in 1972 again had to defeat an incumbent when a redistricting plan designed by former Speaker Gus Mutscher threw him into the same district as a fellow House member.

Kubiak is a graduate of Blinn College, the University of Texas, Midwestern University and has done work at Georgetown University in Washington D. C.

Texas Monthly Magazine last year selected him among the "Ten Best" members of the Legislature and cited him as "the best educated Education Chairman in modern history."

He and his wife Zana have a son, Kelly Dan, and another child due in February.

REP. DAN KUBIAK

Map Shows Arctic Gas Pipeline

A map released in Alaska this week outlines the 2600 mile Alaskan Arctic Gas pipeline system intended to move arctic natural gas from Prudhoe Bay and the Mackenzie Delta to southern markets.

All of the Alaskan gas would be provided to U. S. markets on the West Coast, in the Midwest and on the East Coast. Whatever Canadian gas is excess to Canada's needs will also go to U. S. markets. The project is gaining momentum as the energy crisis expands throughout the country, and could supply up to 6% of the total U.S. demand for natural gas by 1980.

The $5.5 billion Arctic Gas pipeline between the Arctic and the U.S. border is shaping up to be the largest construction project in history.

An antique.
Because of electricity.

The ice box melted from the scene when electric refrigerators appeared. The kerosene lamp faded into the past when electric lights began brightening every home.

Other electric appliances replaced the wash tub and scrub board, the flatiron and the wood-burning cookstove and eliminated the tiresome chore of hand-washing dishes, pots and pans.

Electricity. A vital part of everyday living in so many ways. And Texas Power and Light Company is doing its utmost to assure an adequate supply for essential needs.

Electricity. Still one of the biggest bargains in your budget.

Yoemen Rip Lampasas 65-39

The Cameron Yoemen Tuesday night maintained a first - place deadlock with Gatesville following an easy 65-39 victory over Lampasas on the Badgers' home-court.

Ronnie Bennett and Harry Brooks, Cameron's towering post and forward, each hit 16 points to lead all scoring. Three Badgers, Mickey Bell, John Jones and Dan Davis, hit for 8 points each.

A showdown awaits Cameron Friday night when Gatesville plays a return game, won by Gatesville in the fourth quarter two weeks ago.

The two teams are tied for the lead in 12-AAA North Zone basketball competition.

Cameron also cruised to victories in the junior varsity and freshman games, winning the JV clash, 64-51 and the frosh contest, 51-42. Obra Henry and James Walker each popped 20 points to lead the Yoe JV. Harry Pickett hit 16 for the Badgers.

Deck Stacked

Against Poachers

Poachers in Leon, Robertson and Freestone Counties must think the deck is really stacked against them.

Game wardens coordinated ground units with an airplane to apprehend five groups of night hunters in two days and make 15 cases. Fines totaled $2,900.

When one of the poachers asked a warden, "How'd you find us?" the warden merely smiled and pointed toward heaven.

MEDIA SUPER?

Some jerk wrote a letter to the Houston Post complaining about the excessive Super Bowl News Media coverage. Said it could have been saved for something "meaningful" and not wasted on a football game. Yes, Dummy, the news coverage was excessive to the point of boredom. But, wasn't it nice to have the Media go Ape over something of enjoyment for a change?

"Meaningful", you realize is a chic code word of the politically high brow social brethren who think all Media effort should be spent telling Americans how rotten they and their institutions are.

Sports, and particularly sectulars like the Super Bowl, are a whole lot more meaningful to more Americans than your everyday political scandal.

QUICKIES:

Since Tech defeated Guy Lewis' Houston U. Cougar

basketball team, Baylor and Rice scared 'em to death and Centenary defeated them by a wider margin than it did 2-11 Texas, can Houston writers continue the myth of UH superiority over the Southwest Conference? ... That was some kind of scouting job the Miami Dolphin Feller pulled in seeking out Wayne Moore as a 6-5, 220-pound Lamar Tech basketball player, and signing him for Don Shula. Moore, now 250, mowed down the Minnesota Vikings as an offensive guard for the Floridians.

Whiteside Selected As High School All-American

Yoe senior George Whiteside has been selected as an All-American by the yearly publication of Who's Who in National High School Athletics.

Whiteside is among the 66 South Central U.S. football players who were selected from ballots submitted by a nationwide panel of more than 1500 coaches and sportswriters, including The National Advisory Board of Who's Who. (College Football Coaches)

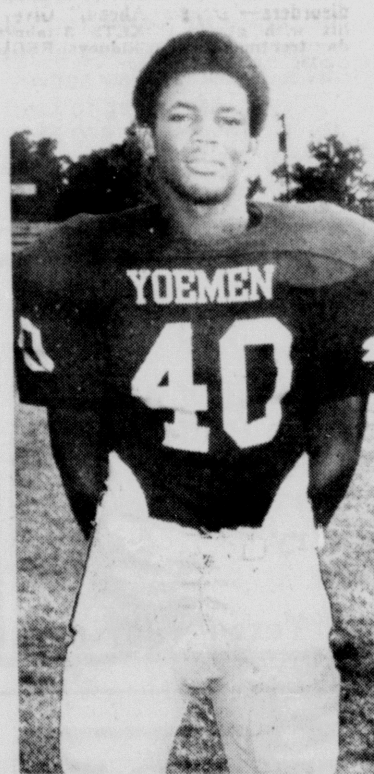

According to Frank Gianetto, the National Director of Who's Who in National High School Athletics the players are being honored for definite evidence of excellence to the highest ideals of sportsmanship through competitive athletics. And further by their strong contributions to team-mates acquired through sacrifice, sportsmanship, cooperation, and fair play.

Whiteside, who was among the few 3A players named, was the only Central Texan honored. Most players were from larger schools such as Houston, Fort Worth, and San Antonio.

This year Whiteside, playing under the direction of head coach Ed Cauley, was Cameron's leading rusher with 1087 yards on 199 carries. He was also the leading scorer with 62 points.

Whiteside was an All District and All Centex selection this year and last year. He was also awarded the Quarterback Club trophy for the most valuable player when he was a junior.

A Rivalry In The Making

Every time you hear teams from Cameron and Belton paired up, you ought to expect a hard fought game. It's been that way for quite some time now, but in the last two years the competition has really reached a peak.

In just about every sport Cameron and Belton seem to stand in each others way. The best example of this can be seen on the football field. Last football season placed Cameron in a position to trouble the Tigers, if they could defeat them in the final game of the season. The year before that Cameron was in the same position, and again had the opportunity of throwing the zone into a three way tie.

Unfortunately Cameron did not defeat the Tigers in either situation, but yet the importance of a victory and the excellent ball played by both teams has created, in my opinion, a rivalry between the two teams.

There is only one victory bell, everyone knows that. But there is no longer only one rivalry. Competition between the two teams has created its own rivalry, and although young it is huge and still growing.

vertime. The excitement continued during the 3 minute overtime and as the Yoemen played like they are capable of playing. Cameron outscored Belton 14-4, and left with a 62-52 victory.

I'm anxious to see if Belton will use the full court press against Cameron again as they meet in the last game of regular season play on Feb. 5.

The press caused only minor troubles for the Yoemen in early action, and it proved to be fatal to the Tigers, not the Yoemen, in fourth quarter and overtime action.

Time and time again, Cameron beat the press and with perfect passes to Ronnie Bennett who was left unattended under the goal. And as can be expected, Bennett who stands 6'7" tossed the ball in for the easy points.

Perhaps, the Belton coach better improve his full court press or discontinue it.

Cameron's next opponent will be the Gatesville Hornets. The game will be played on the home court with the JV beginning at 5 p.m. and the varsity at 6:30 p.m.

Cameron will be attempting to avenge their earlier 58-56 loss to the Hornets.

Congratulations to George Whiteside who was selected as an All-American by Who's Who in National High School Athletics.

Whiteside was the only Central Texan listed from the South Central United States candidates.

The years have come,
And the years have gone.
But sweet memories of old friends,
Will live on and on.

Charlie Swift was a man,
loved by all.
His passing brings sorrow,
to those left behind.
Always, he will be cherished
and remembered,
In our hearts and mind.

Surely, he lived in a house
beside the road,
And was indeed, a friend
And was indeed, a friend
of man.
May God rest his beautiful

Console his loved ones, and protect them, With His

FIVE WAYS TO GET BETTER MEAT BUYS AND CUT YOUR BUDGET TO THE BONE!

You can feed your family meat economically if you follow a few guidelines. Careful spending is the key.

1. Compare meat cuts on a per-serving basis, rather than per pound. For example, you can get 5-6 servings from a pound of Value Patty; 4 servings per pound from other boneless meats such as ground beef, round or flank steak, stew meat, liver, fish fillets, or center cuts of ham; 2-3 servings per pound from bone-in meats such as most roasts, chops and steaks, poultry or dressed fish; and only 1-2 servings per pound from meats with substantial amounts of bone and/or fat such as rib steaks or chops, short ribs, T-bone and club steaks.
2. How big is a serving? This depends on your family, of course, but 3 ounces of cooked lean meat is the most common definition of a meat serving. This could vary somewhat depending on personal preference. To visualize 3 ounces of cooked meat, think of a piece about 4"x2"x1/2".
3. Buy the specials and take advantage of a piece of meat. Make your own individual cuts and save. Cook enough for at least two meals and save time and energy (both yours and the cooking fuel!).
4. Learn to use some of the meat alternates. In addition to beef, veal, lamb, pork, poultry and fish, the meat group includes eggs, cheese, dry beans and peas, nuts and peanut butter. All have high protein content. Discover variety meats such as liver, tongue, brains, kidneys, heart and sweetbreads. They offer excellent nutrition at lower costs.
5. Learn to recognize the less-tender cuts of meat. Only about one quarter of the meat is considered tender. The other three-quarters offers a good choice at less money. However, they do require a bit more ingenuity from the cook. Look for your meat identity labels and charts. These in-store helps will assist you in locating these less-tender cuts and suggest some ways to cook them for best results. Ask for our free meat identity booklet at your favorite store. If they don't have a copy available, I would be glad to send you one to help you take advantage of those less-tender cuts.

If you need assistance with your menus, recipes, or if you would like other information, please write to me; I'll be glad to help.
